

Mid-East Crisis Eases Awaiting Debate by UN

Damascus Denies
Rumors King Saud
Offers to Mediate

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Turkey and Syria have accepted Saudi Arabian King Saud's offer to mediate their dispute, diplomatic quarters disclosed today.

By United Press

The Middle East crisis eased today despite a new rash of propaganda charges by Moscow and weekend warnings by Syrian leaders that Turkey had sent three divisions and 800 tanks to the frontier.

The nations involved appeared willing to let things slide until the United Nations begins a formal debate Tuesday or Wednesday on Syrian charges that Turkey, backed by the United States, plans to attack.

There were rumors in London that King Saud of Saudi Arabia had offered to mediate the dispute. This was denied in Damascus and observers noted that such an offer probably would have to await the U. N. debate.

Pravda, the official organ of the Soviet Communist Party, kept the crisis simmering today by hinting that United States 6th Fleet planes had flown over Syria at high altitude.

Istanbul and Damascus Quiet

Pravda quoted Syrian Chief of Staff Aff Bazzi in an interview as saying such high altitude flights had increased.

"We consider that these planes fly not from Turkish airfields but possibly from American aircraft carriers," Pravda quoted Bazzi.

United Press correspondent Russell Jones in Istanbul and Peter Webb in Damascus reported both cities quiet on the surface despite the recent war talk and acting Syrian Foreign Minister Khalil Khallas' statement to Parliament that Turkey had moved three divisions and 800 tanks to the border.

Crisis Appears Averted

Other Mideast developments: Tehran—A crisis in Iranian and Syrian relations appeared to have been diverted. Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Ardalan took exception to a U. N. statement by Syrian Foreign Minister Salah El Bitar. Bitar denied making the statement.

Cairo—Air Jordan said it would send to the U. S. embassy a full report on the alleged attack by Israeli jet planes on one of its American-flown transport planes Saturday. The plane landed safely in Cairo.

Jerusalem—Israel said one of its jets fired on a Jordanian C-47 civilian plane over the Negev Desert and ordered it to land because it was violating Israeli air space.

Scott Elected

To Board of New Demo Federation

Harrisburg Attorney Don Scott has been elected to the Provisional State Executive Board of the Democratic Federation of Illinois. He represents the Southern Region on the board.

A graduate of Illinois College, Jacksonville, and George Washington University Law School in Washington, D. C., Scott served as County Judge of Saline county from 1938 to 1946. He was State Central Committee member from the 24th Congressional district and twice attended Democratic National conventions as alternate delegate. First time in 1940 and again in 1956.

Scott is owner and manager of the Don Scott Abstract and Title company, and is a member of the Illinois Title association, the American Title association, and a member of the Illinois State Bar association.

The statewide Democratic Federation of Illinois was formed at an organizing conference in Springfield Sept. 28, 1957, at which more than 400 persons from all sections of the state were present and participated. The primary purpose of the Federation is to encourage and assist in the organization of Democratic clubs in every community in the state. These clubs will provide individual Democrats, and democratically-inclined independents, with a chance to participate personally in politics. The clubs, by their members' votes, will control the future policies of the Democratic Federation of Illinois at an annual convention.

Judge Refuses To Cancel Order Against Hoffa

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal Judge F. Dickenson Letts today refused to set aside a temporary court order barring James R. Hoffa from taking over at once as president of the Teamsters Union.

The judge also denied motions by union attorneys that would have thrown out of court the charges by 13 rank and file members that Hoffa's election was rigged.

4 Youths Launch Own Rockets

CHICAGO (AP)—Fourth youthful rocketeers are preparing for the 13th launching of a product of their space research department with only a good-natured shrug for the Russians' Sputnik.

Stuart Cohen, 15, who lives in suburban Winnetka, said the last one they launched Saturday zipped into space on its first stage propellant even though the second stage failed to fire.

And it cost only $20, a financial atom compared to a universe of Russian spending.

Saturday's rocket soared 1,000 feet on its first stage, but the second stage disappeared. The rocketeers so far have been confined to recording their projectiles on still camera film, but plan to use a movie camera on the next shot. "Six of the 12 launchings we've made in the past six months have been successful," Cohen said. "We've learned something new every time."

Cohen said that he and his fellow experimenters freely exchange information and don't try to compete with one another.

"We share ideas all the time," Cohen said of his friends, Steve Robin, Stuart Tobin and Kenneth Fisher.

Elbert Fulkerson of SIU Heads Southern Illinois Historical Society

Elbert Fulkerson, secretary of the faculty of Southern Illinois University, was elected president of the Southern Illinois Historical Society at the fall meeting held in the University Library Auditorium at Carbondale Friday night.

Mrs. L. O. Trigg, vice president, and Dr. John Clifford, secretary-treasurer, were re-elected.

T. Leo Dodd of Eldorado, and Virgil Center of Benton were elected directors and Dr. Norman Caldwell of the SIU staff, was re-elected for three year terms.

The business meeting was conducted by President E. G. Lentz.

A short report was made of the continued interest in the rebuilding of Fort Defiance at Cairo which was given full sanction by Southern Illinois Historical society two years ago under the presidency of Louis Aaron of Harrisburg.

L. A. Dearing presented "Historic Picture Tour of Southern Illinois," a collection of color slides portraying many scenes of early historic significance.

Mrs. Dearing showed the slides while her husband's commentary covered the all but forgotten lore of many people who settled first in the prairie country.

Dismiss Claim Against Estate Of Bridge Official

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Federal Judge Casper Platt today dismissed a federal claim against the estate of one former member of the White County, Ill., Bridge Commission but refused to dismiss claims against other members.

The government is seeking recovery of $69,101 from members of the Bridge Commission and from the estates of two former members.

The suit was brought against Roy Clippinger, publisher of the Carmi Times and a commission member; the Carmi Times Publishing Co.; Madison Pomeroy and Ulys Pyle, bridge commissioners; and the administrators of the estates of Julius C. Kern and Jennings Marlin, deceased former commission members.

Platt threw out the claim against Marlin's estate because, he said, no claims were filed against the estate within nine months after Marlin's death in September, 1955, as required by law.

The government, he said, consequently was barred from any claim against the Marlin estate.

The government charged in the suit brought last August that commission members improperly diverted funds of the toll bridge and were guilty of "misfeasance" in office.

No trial date has yet been set for the claims which Platt refused to dismiss.

Charged with Reckless Driving

George J. Rude, 19, Harco, overturned the car he was driving on Route 34 at the edge of Galatia about 2 a. m. Sunday and was picked up by State Policeman Carl Pendell of Mt. Vernon and Sheriff William T. Barrett on a ticket which charged reckless driving.

and forests all were pictured and told were many intimate incidents in the lives of pioneers of the nine Southern Illinois counties represented in the Society.

John Allen, chairman of the necrology committee, named in a tribute of not to be forgotten friendship, L. O. Trigg, Eldorado, N. W. Draper, Carbondale, Mrs. W. S. Burkhardt, Marion, Will Griffith, The Egyptian Key editor, Father Funke, Mrs. Julius Schuh of Cairo, Clarence Bonnell, Cyril Thompson, Fred Wasson, Elbert Waller, and many others whose "names elude me for the moment."

These people, he said, wrote, lived, and spoke Illinois history and have left the duty of carrying on to this generation.

At the board of directors meeting a discussion of the revision of the constitution was held.

This is being done, President Lentz explained, in order to attract a larger membership, and to work in all ways possible to interest the youth of today in the history of a yesterday so near to them.

The business meeting was preceded by a dinner in the cafeteria dining room. On the tables were arrangements of pyracantha and zinnias, re-echoing the blaze of fall colors worn by Egypt's hills and valleys.

Coroner Charles Cox said the youth had taken his girl friend home to New Haven and was returning to Ridgway. The lad, it was believed, went to sleep at the wheel. Cox stated, the car leaving the pavement and hitting an abutment. Young Drone was dead on arrival at Ferrell hospital in Eldorado.

The body was taken to the Cox funeral home at Ridgway.

The funeral will be held at 9 a. m. Tuesday at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Ridgway with the Rev. John Venegoni conducting the funeral rites. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. White became ill Saturday morning and was taken to his daughter's home where he died, of a heart attack.

In addition to Mrs. Rankin he had two other daughters, Mrs. Kathleen Nunn, Johnston City, and Mrs. Frances Mooneyham, East Alton, and one son, Elbert "Bruno" White, Pontiac, Mich., all of whom survive. Also surviving are his brother, Bluford White, Alton, and his sisters, Mrs. Essie Jenkins and Mrs. May Rilying, both of Harrisburg, and Mrs. Margaret Leavell, Junction.

West Frankfort To Launch 3-Year Development Plan

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—The Coal mining town of West Frankfort will launch a three-year "Operation Better Community" program tonight at a town meeting.

The ring of two anvils will summon townspeople to the high school gymnasium where a "packed house" of 4,200 persons is expected by 4 p. m. leaders.

Other fanfare will signal the start of the program. A blimp will shower circulars upon the town of 11,000 and searchlights will beam into the sky.

Two Harrisburg Homes Damaged By Fires Sunday

Two Harrisburg houses sustained considerable damage by fire Sunday, Fire Chief L. G. Martin reported.

At 9 a. m. a run was made to 118 West Baker street to a house owned by Sam Cape and occupied by the Roland Brasher and Melvin Priest families.

Martin said that fire, he believed, started in a hot air register, spread up the wall and into the attic at the rear of the house. Firemen were able to confine the fire to that area.

At 9:40 p. m. a run was made to Lewis street near Walnut to a house owned by Russell Ashford and occupied by Curtis Jackson and son, John. A short in the wiring caught the front porch afire and the flames spread into the attic, Martin stated.

Another run was made at 3:30 p. m. to the Salvation Army building, where a furnace had become overheated and a boiler was about to blow up.

County WCTU Elects Officers

Friday, Oct. 18, the Saline County W. C. T. U. meeting was held at Eldorado at the Methodist church educational building.

Officers and members from four unions attended the meeting, namely, Harrisburg, Eldorado, Raleigh and Texas City.

The morning devotions were led by Mrs. Kirt Gasaway of Harrisburg, who read Romans 3 and spoke about the Grace of God. During the business session the following county officers were elected for the coming year:

President, Mrs. R. G. Putnam, Eldorado; vice president, Mrs. Muriel Holland, Harrisburg; secretary, Mrs. Charles Smith, Eldorado; treasurer, Miss Zella Greenfield, Raleigh.

Reports were given by each of the county directors and Mrs. Putnam gave a report of the state convention which she attended earlier this month.

After the noon prayer a covered-dish dinner was enjoyed.

The afternoon devotions were given by Mrs. Irvan Harris, using as her text, Galatians 6: 7, 8, 9, and Matt. 6: 33. She gave an inspiring talk on Putting God first in our lives.

Mrs. Millie Shelton of Eldorado gave the welcome and Mrs. Robert Melven of Harrisburg the response.

The Rev. Ernest Ammon gave an interesting and helpful talk. The memorial was given by Mrs. John Viers of Eldorado.

It was announced that on Oct. 27, which is Temperance Sunday, at 6:15 p. m. Sam Morris will speak on the radio from Washington, D. C., through the facilities of the National Broadcasting Company. Everyone is urged to hear this speech.

Arrested for Passing School Bus While Unloading

Billy Hutchinson of Harrisburg is held in the Saline county jail, picked up on a reckless driving charge that involved passing a school bus that was stopped unloading children.

County officers said that Hutchinson is charged with passing the halted bus on the wrong side by driving onto the shoulder when two little girls were being unloaded. They said the incident occurred on Route 45 near the east city limits of Carrier Mills where a Schofield had been killed by an auto a few years ago. One of the two girls is a child in the Schofield family, they added.

The youth was arrested last Thursday by city police and was fined $60 in police magistrate court here on a reckless driving charge after City Policeman John Dunn, off duty, saw him drive through the red light uptown at about forty miles per hour. The bus incident happened the same afternoon and he was picked up later that evening, officers stated.

Ordered by Wilson

Sen. Monroney Charges Cut in Research Invitation to Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) charges that a 170-million dollar cut recently ordered in military research funds would be "an open invitation to disaster" for the United States.

The cut, which came to light Sunday, was ordered by former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson on Aug. 17.

It would amount to a 10 per cent rollback in military research and development funds, including in part funds spent on space studies.

Monroney, whose views carry great weight with his Democratic colleagues, demanded the administration cancel the order. He said it was an example of how the Russians were able to put a satellite in space ahead of the United States.

At Cape Canaveral, Fla., meanwhile, scientists again delayed test-firing a Vanguard missile. The missile, which eventually will boost a U. S. satellite into orbit, was to have been tested late last week but was held up for either technical or weather reasons.

Furnas Attacks Wilson

Wilson also came under attack from Clifford C. Furnas, former assistant secretary for research and development who said the United States might have been able to put a baby moon in space two years ago if the Army had not been overruled.

Other developments in the missile-satellite field:

—The Soviet Sputnik faced great hazards as it circled the earth for the 17th day. The Red Moon headed into a heavy meteor shower that could smash it to pieces or knocked it off course, the London Sunday Observer reported.

—Aviation Week magazine said U. S. radar equipment in Turkey has been spotting Russian missile secrets for two years. The magazine said the radar disclosed that the Russians began firing developmental stage intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) last summer.

No Compromise with South

Democrat Policy Makers Attack Eisenhower on Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—The policy-making voice of the Democratic Party issued today a civil rights declaration which attacked President Eisenhower and called for prompt enforcement of the rights bill and the federal Constitution.

The declaration indicated that the national party organization is in no mood to compromise with its southern members.

The statement was adopted Sunday at the close of a two-day meeting of the Democratic Advisory Council and released today by the Democratic National Committee.

A lone dissent was registered by a southern member, Mrs. Benjamin B. Everett of North Carolina.

The statement charged that "the failure of President Eisenhower to take an early and firm position for observance of the provisions of the Constitution and laws of the United States has been substantially responsible for the trouble at Little Rock."

It called on Eisenhower, "without further delay," to create the civil rights investigating commission and to appoint the new assistant attorney general for civil rights which were provided in the rights bill.

The council Sunday released a statement charging that the economic policies of the Eisenhower administration were leading the nation toward depression.

The economic statement was approved by all 16 members present. Chairman Paul M. Butler announced that former President Truman, one of the eight absentees, also indicated his approval.

Those attending included Adlai E. Stevenson, 1952 and 1956 presidential nominee; Sen. Estes Kefauver, his 1956 running mate; and Govs. Averell F. Riman of New York and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan.

At its Saturday session the council adopted a foreign policy statement accusing the administration of placing its budget goals and domestic politics ahead of national security. It said this resulted in "unilateral disarmament" and damaged U. S. foreign policy.

650,000 Cheer During Parade Up Broadway

Biggest Reception
Since MacArthur
Returned from Japan

NEW YORK (AP)—New York gave Queen Elizabeth the biggest, warmest reception of her American tour today. It showered her with rain-bow-hued ticker-tape as she rode up Broadway and feted her at a sumptuous official luncheon.

From the moment the monarch stepped off her private train on Staten Island for a 15-hour round of ceremonies, speeches, and entertainments, New Yorkers cheered her as though she were their own.

The last day of her 10-day visit to Canada and the United States appeared to be the best. Even the weather cooperated.

Police Commissioner Stephen Kennedy said more than 650,000 persons cheered her from the curb-side as she made a triumphant progress by car from the Battery to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The Broadway parade, the reception by Mayor Robert F. Wagner at City Hall, and her arrival at the Waldorf-Astoria for a luncheon given by the mayor went off in a sunny swirl of colorful confetti and tape and spontaneous cheers of "Hi, Liz!" and "god save the Queen."

Pickets Mar Reception

Only a group of 20 Irish-American pickets protesting the British "occupation" of Ireland marred the holiday atmosphere. They paraded near the Waldorf, but the Queen did not see them.

Even the Queen seemed surprised by the enthusiasm of her American cousins. "Goodness, goodness, goodness!" she exclaimed to Prince Philip, whose own description was, "It's overwhelming."

It was the biggest celebrity reception here since Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned from Japan.

Curb-side crowds of hundreds of thousands cheered the 31-year-old monarch and her consort Prince Philip as their royal motorcade moved slowly in brilliant sunshine from the Battery to City Hall.

The windows of skyscrapers along the route were jammed with office workers who scattered tons of confetti, tickertape and torn telephone directories on her bubble-top limousine.

Philip Thrills Secretaries

It was the Queen's first visit to New York, the city she said she had "wanted to see since I was a child." It was also the first ticker-

Sputnik and the Arms Race

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

The Russians would be totally out of character if they did not attempt to gain maximum propaganda value from their success in probing outer space. They are crowing loudly, and showing no hint of humility in the face of the great natural forces involved.

The worst aspect of this is that the Kremlin obviously seeks to capitalize on its scientific triumph to bulldoze the free world into accepting its disarmament proposals.

Using "Sputnik" as a kind of club, the Russians want to frighten tremulous neutrals and even sturdy anti-Communist peoples into submission.

To combat this effort gives to the United States and its firm friends perhaps the most hazardous diplomatic task they have had since the close of World War II.

For what has dazzled the world is not only that the Soviet Union has catapulted into space a spinning object able to resist the pull of the earth. It is that by doing so they have revealed capabilities heretofore merely claimed or hinted at.

But we must not forget, and we must not allow our friends and the neutral nations to forget, that the United States has not—as a corollary of Russian success—lost its own capabilities.

We still have a huge and varied arsenal of atomic and hydrogen weapons and the ability to deliver these to the enemy. So long as we can put one hydrogen bomb over the Soviet Union, we have the capacity to render another war an unbearable holocaust for the Russian people.

The evidence at this moment suggests that we are trailing Russia in the development of long-range guided missiles which could deliver nuclear warheads. But the race is not over. Just as the Soviet Union learned the secret of nuclear weapons after we had jumped into a huge lead, so we can redress the balance in the missile field.

Our great nuclear arsenal plus the prospect of success in the missile and satellite field should give us confidence, though plainly there no longer is room for smugness and complacency.

Neither we nor our friends should be panicked into submitting totally or one by one to Russia. War is just as unthinkable for both sides today as it was before "Sputnik" was launched.

So long as this is so, our resolve to hold out for peace with justice for the great bulk of mankind in the free world should not crumble. We have no reason to yield in fear. Rather we should resist in the sure knowledge of our undiminished strength, and set about adding to it with all the resources at our command.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

Drew Pearson Says: Queen Elizabeth is a reminder of freedoms we inherited from England; her ancestors restricted freedoms; she protects them.

WASHINGTON—Queen Elizabeth II looked as lovely as the fall foliage as she visited the state named for her ancestor, the first Queen Elizabeth. . . . A lot of things have changed in those 400 years since Sir Walter Raleigh gave his new found colony the name, Virginia, for the Virgin Queen. Even the word "Raleigh" has new connotations, and according to Madison Avenue, is now chiefly identified with cigarettes. . . . Probably Elizabeth II isn't aware of this. But she is aware, keenly aware, of other things. You get the feeling that this young woman, visiting the land named for the first Queen Elizabeth 400 years later, has a sense of the change, and that she is riding with history. Her ancestors made history, sometimes bad history. But she is riding with history—unable in these days of hemmed-in monarchy to change it, but nevertheless curious, eager, worried about it—worried about the change that has come over her own empire, curious about the friendly democracy she is visiting today. . . . Despite her tweediness and love of horse-racing, the Queen is a serious person. One private remark indicates her serious curiosity. She wanted to know why there was anti-Semitism in the United States. In her country where such Jews as Disraeli served as prime minister; Emanuel Shinwell, defense minister; Hore-Belisha, secretary of war; and the Marquess of Reading, Viceroy of India, such prejudice doesn't exist. . . . So the Queen was curious.

THE BILL OF RIGHTS — Yes, on the surface things have changed since Sir Walter Raleigh named Virginia for Elizabeth I. But one thing hasn't changed—the fundamentals of government we inherited from the country over which Elizabeth II rules today. It was near Orange, Virginia, that James Madison, a Virginian of English ancestry, sat under a tree with John Leland, also of English ancestry, to work out the first amendments to our constitution—the Bill of Rights. Those rights had come from centuries of human struggle by the British people. They had won the principle of habeas corpus, the right of privacy, prohibition against bills of attainder, and the much-criticized Fifth Amendment the right of a citizen not to testify against himself. . . . These freedoms were not won easily. The thirteen struggling colonies perfected some of them, wrote them into their constitution. But basically they were inherited from other Englishmen who had fought and died through the centuries to win them—beginning in 1215 with the Magna Carta. . . . Incidentally, it was the military expenditures of King Richard the Lion-Hearted in his crusade to the Holy Land that caused a rebellion against high taxes and helped hammer the Magna Carta into shape. Even in those days, governments had to worry about debt ceilings, military budgets, not for spunkies or ICBMs, but for lances, swords, and armor plate.

BLOOD OF MARTYRS — Some of England's greatest battles for man's freedom took place just as our ancestors were settling on this continent. And most of them took place against the royal ancestors of the young Queen who is now the guardian and protector of those hard-fought rights. . . . The right of privacy, the ban on unlawful search, Lord Chatham's dictum that "the poorest man may be in his cottage bid defiance of the crown" was written with the blood of Algernon Sidney, second son of the Earl of Leicester who had left in his trunk an old manuscript reflecting on the advantages of a republican form of government. The King, he said, has three superiors: "God, the law, and the power of the people vested in parliament." For this he was executed. But resentment against his execution brought about the English guarantee against illegal search and seizure. . . . Then there was our right of petition, the right to address congress, the right to lobby. We inherited it from the trials and tribulations of Lord George Gordon, who was arrested for high treason when he led a crowd of Protestants in petitioning the House of Commons. At his trial, it was charged that "tumultuous petition is treason." He was acquitted, and that acquittal established the right of assembly and petition. . . . There was also Dr. Tutchin, convicted of seditious libel under Queen Anne for criticizing mismanagement of the royal navy. "To possess the people of an ill opinion of the government is a crime," it was charged. "No government can be safe if it is criticized." . . . A storm of protest erupted, and from it the right to criticize government was evolved. Imagine what we would be like without that right today!

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS — Freedom of the press was hammered out in the English courts just before the American colonies started their push toward freedom. The battle was contagious. It percolated across the Atlantic. . . . John Wilkes, publisher of the North Britain, claimed the right to criticize ministers of government by name. "The use of names is essential to the development of sound political literature," he wrote. . . . Wilkes was charged with libel, convicted, given six years, appealed, fought his case so long and so successfully that Lord Bute resigned as prime minister. This was in 1769. That battle for a free press in neland made a profound impression in America.

The young Queen who visits us also has felt the stings and jibes of a free press. But times have changed. She is just as much a defender of the right to criticize even when turned against her, as she is a symbol of the freedoms for which our ancestors fought and of which we are the fortunate beneficiaries.

Elks Minstrel Goes Western

The first part of this year's Elks Minstrel will center on the activities "at the Circle R," which is a ranch in the southwest that is about to go blooey due to drought. Then its owner, S. D. Smithers (Becky Barnhill), from back east comes west and decides to turn it into a dude ranch and that is where the fun begins.

You will see the foreman (Glen O. Jones) having his troubles trying to keep his cowhands (Howard Logsdon, Richard Webb, Vern Joyner, Russell Lynn, Roy Small, Jack Davenport, Clayton Slack, "Bus" Hunsinger, Val Oshel, Carl Woolcott, Roger Wiley, George Wright, Bruce Roper) in tow. Panchito (Harry Elmo Wirth) has his trials and tribulations trying to communicate with his departed friend, Cisco, through his dealings with the famous Western Mystic (Carl Beggs).

All through the first act Curley, Doc and Hank (Charles Ford, Bill Brashears and John Bozeman) will keep the viewers in stitches. Lonesome Willy (Bill Williams) is a cowboy without a cow but you will enjoy him singing a beautiful ballad written by one of the cast, Jean Gaspins, who as Maxine, drops in to the Circle R with her Goldie Pearl Band (Georgianne Tanner, Marilee Durham, Judy Hicks, Janice Norman, Collette Wavering and Miki Gooch).

Among the first guests to arrive at the new dude ranch are a group of school marm portraits by Patty Davenport, Jane Hunsinger, Barbara Thompson, Jane Ratcliff, Lucille Schmierle, Betty Franks, Mari Buchman, and Bonnie Small, who are immediately entranced by the abundance of "He-men" cowboys who also find the school marm most enticing, and who immediately proceed to teach them the art of horseback riding.

Then highlight of Act I is "Pops" (Roy Small) reminiscing over the romantic past as he recalls his dancehall dream girls (Bill Franks, Henry Stricklin, Dr. James Gaspins, Jim Byrd, Joe Jackson, Jim Sullivan, Kenneth Davis and Ray Reinhardt).

The Elks Minstrel will be presented as usual for the first time on Wednesday afternoon for the grade school children for which there is no admission. Public

New Rambler On Display at Pool Garage

American Motors today announceed its new 1958 line of six and eight-cylinder Rambler cars, featuring more than a hundred major styling and engineering improvements designed to "take further advantage of the trend toward compact cars which gained such a strong foothold in 1957."

The new Ramblers are on display today at Pool Pontiac garage,
Harrisburg dealer.

Eleven models - station wagons,

Both the V-8, known as the Ram-

Billy Graham Injured by Ram

MONTREAT, N. C. — Evangelist Billy Graham faced X-ray tests in a hospital today because he fought a painful battle with a kind of horned devil he had never fought before.

The devil was not the irreligious type with which Graham wrestles in his sermons. Rather, it was a "big, mean, emulous old ram" that was guarding his two ewes.

Saturday afternoon, Graham entered the sheep pen on his mountain farm to pick an apple off a tree in the pen. He intended to give the apple to the ram.

The apple turned out to be the forbidden fruit. The ram butted Graham from behind, striking him behind the knees, Graham tumbled down a 50-foot craggy incline, bruising and scratching himself.

The enraged ram followed, butting Graham twice more. The evangelist picked up an ax and fended the animal off until he could scramble over a fence.

Graham, suffering bruises, cuts and scratches, lay in bed all day Sunday lamenting the fact "I kept turning the other cheek on that old ram."

Army Deserter Saws Way Out of Jail at Marion

MARION, Ill. — A 20-year-old Army deserter sawed his way out of the county jail at Marion early today.

Deputy Sheriff Dean West said Edward Eugene Gee of Thebes used four hacksaw blades to cut through a one-inch steel bar in a window. He then squirmed through the 8-by-16-inch opening and dropped about eight feet to the ground.

Other prisoners said Gee had warned them he had a gun, although none of them saw one. The prisoners notified authorities after Gee's escape at 12:30 a. m.

West said the FBI had picked up Gee last Friday at Spillertown, about two miles northwest of Marion, as a deserter from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Authorities said the hacksaw blades might have been tossed from the outside into the jail through a rusted-out screen outside the bars.

Horace Mann PTA Carnival Includes 'Gay 90's' Band

The Horace Mann annual P.T.A. carnival will be held at the school from 5-8 p. m. Thursday. Included in the entertainment will be orchestra arrangements by the "Gay 90's" band made up of the following musicians: Mrs. Dick Parker, Dr. B. E. Montgomery, O. L. Turner Jr. and J. W. Towle.

Food will be served in the main hall at 5 p. m. and rooms will feature a variety of entertainment. There will be pantomime and movies in one room and the grand finale at 7:30 p. m. will feature the "Gay 90's" band and pupils of the Marlin Dance Studio.

The time has been moved up 30 minutes this year in order that the attendants may get to the Elk's minstrel on time, if they so desire.

Benson and Two Daughters to Take Round-World Trip

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announced today that he and two of his daughters will take off Tuesday on a 3½ week trip around the world.

Benson told a news conference he wants to observe "first hand the results of our export program and to meet government officials and representatives of the trade."

He also will be accompanied by five members of his staff.

Benson and his party will travel in a government airplane. They will visit 11 nations and Hong Kong before returning to Washington Nov. 15.

A reporter asked Benson if the government would foot the bill for his daughters. He did not answer.

A Benson aide said after the news conference that Benson will pay all his daughters' expenses except their transportation.

President Asks Greater World Understanding

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said today that greater understanding between the peoples of the world would lead to a peace of justice and permanence.

He made the statement in an informal speech in the White House Rose Garden to more than 700 delegates to the International Congress of Actuaries, an organization of experts who calculate insurance risks.

The President, citing the fact that the delegates came from 32 countries, took occasion to plug for his "people-to-people" program.

"We may differ about a problem very seriously," he said, "but if you understand that I have a side to the problem and I understand that you have a side to the problem, the bitterness is removed from our conversations and our discussions."

Bitterness between people and nations, he said, leads to stagnation and antagonism.

Court Rejects Virginia Appeal

WASHINGTON — Virginia today lost an attempt to get a Supreme Court hearing for its elaborate legal scheme to block school integration.

Lower courts already have declared the Virginia law unconstitutional or "inadequate."

The Supreme Court specifically rejected an appeal by Virginia authorities from racial integration orders for Norfolk and Newport News schools.

Today's brief order leaves standing a 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision affirming the integration orders.

Deaths by Flu, Complications Climb to 205

New York Highest With 54; Fatalities Hit In 16 States

By United Press
The death toll from flu and its complications climbed beyond the 200 mark and health officials stepped up their campaign to inoculate the public against the disease.

A United Press tally showed 205 deaths directly or indirectly caused by the flu since last summer when the Asian virus first broke out in the United States.

The ailment hit hardest in New York with 54 deaths, followed by Pennsylvania with 37, Louisiana 21 and California 20.

In all, 16 states have reported flu fatalities, many of them occurring in the past week. The National Health Service in Washington reported more than 1,500,000 persons have been stricken with the flu so far, and that the Asian virus has appeared in all sections of the nation.

Other states reporting flu deaths were Michigan 17, Illinois 10, Ohio, Utah and Wisconsin 7 each, Colorado 5, New Jersey and Iowa 3 each, and Oklahoma, Oregon and Indiana 1 each. The Territory of Hawaii recorded 9 deaths and the District of Columbia 1.

Lethal outbreaks of the flu continued in schools for the mentally retarded in Pennsylvania and Illinois.

A 4-year-old girl became the ninth flu victim at the Pennhurst State School at Spring City, Pa. The girl died Saturday night.

School officials at Pennhurst said 180 persons, including 70 attendants, were bedded down with the flu, with three patients on the critical list.

Many Hospitalized
At the Dixon, Ill., State School for the Mentally Retarded, where seven persons have died from the flu, officials reported 1,147 bed patients, none of them in critical condition. The outbreak was confirmed as Asian Flu, and inoculations were administered at the school during the weekend by teams of physicians.

A University of Chicago laboratory disclosed that Asian Flu virus has been found in infants. The laboratory said the Asian strain was found in tests on 16 babies, the youngest six weeks old.

Health officials urged the public to take advantage of Asian Flu inoculations as a precaution against the disease.

Seeks Assistance In Rebuilding Home After Fire

Building materials of any kind will be greatly appreciated by Mr. and Mrs. Coy Milligan, whose home, furniture, clothing and food, were destroyed by fire Friday afternoon. Mr. Milligan stated this morning he hoped to rebuild his home, but had no insurance and needs assistance.

Doors, windows, lumber — anything in the building materials line — are needed and will be gratefully accepted. Mr. Milligan states he was given between 600 and 700 feet of lumber Sunday.

Their losses included everything they owned, except the clothing being worn by Mr. and Mrs. Milligan at the time the fire broke out Friday afternoon.

The home and furniture of Lettie Peazel were destroyed in the same blaze. The homes were located on East Walnut, about a quarter of a mile from U. S. Route 45.

Ticker Tape Parade For Queen, Prince

tape parade ever afforded a British monarch.

New York's informal shouts of "Hi, Liz!" brought the Queen's broadest smile and the jauntiest wave she has exhibited on her six-day visit to the United States. Fashion conscious New York women eyed her rust-colored ensemble trimmed with regal white knit and set off with flashing diamond jewelry.

Handsome bareheaded "Prince Phil," whose car followed the Queen's, flashed a smile that thrilled the Wall Street's secretaries who had been given an extra-long lunch hour to attend the parade.

The Queen and her party arrived aboard a U. S. Army ferry which had brought them from their train on Staten Island in the company of Gov. Averell Harriman and British Commonwealth dignitaries.

Exclaims in Wonderment

Elizabeth's own comments on her first view of the towers and turrets of Manhattan were in everyday American slang:

"Wheel!" she exclaimed. "How exciting! I didn't realize the buildings were so closely knit."

The weather was as near perfect as a queen could wish.

Her brief route to City Hall for Mayor Robert F. Wagner's official welcome to the city called up one of the heaviest forces of police, federal security officers, firemen and first aid personnel in memory.

Not since MacArthur was cheered by 7,500,000 persons in 1951 had the city put on such a dazzling show. The entire financial district, which Elizabeth glimpsed as she passed Trinity Church at the head of Wall Street, was decked with Union Jacks.

Elizabeth was truly New York's queen for a day. By the time she boarded her DC-7C early Tuesday morning for her return flight to London, she will have traveled 36 miles in three of the city's boroughs, shaken 2,700 hands and have been viewed by hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers.

The Queen and Prince Philip said goodbye to President and Mrs. Eisenhower late Sunday night to conclude a four-day visit in Washington.

Illinois and Purdue Stun Minnesota, Michigan State; Iowa, Ohio State Share Lead

CHICAGO (U)—Michigan State and Minnesota today started therapy to free them of upset jitters caused Saturday by a pair of Big Ten upstarts.
The cure was certain to include extended hours on the field and before the blackboard for both the Gophers, who were bombed, 34-13, by Illinois; and the Spartans, who were ambushed, 20-13, by Purdue.
The stunning Purdue triumph shattered Michigan State's No. 1 national ranking in its first test and tagged the Spartans with their first setback after bowling over three opponents.
Illinois, coming up with its annual upset in conference play, likewise threw a roadblock into Minnesota's championship tour after three earlier victories had snared a No. 3 rating for the Gophers.
Minnesota faces Michigan next Saturday and Michigan State tackles Illinois.
Iowa and Ohio State Lead
The result of the double upset and other Big Ten activity left Ohio State and Iowa sharing the league lead with 20 records. Michigan State and Minnesota were right behind with 2-1 showings, and Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin followed with one win and one loss each.
Ohio State bombed a hopeless Indiana team, 56-0. Iowa defended its conference crown in tripping Wisconsin, 21-7, and Michigan rallied in the final period to beat Northwestern, 34-14.
The victory for Illini Coach Ray Eliot was a big one and solidified his coaching status, which may have been becoming shaky following losses to UCLA and Ohio State. Eliot's 13-point underdogs staged an upset that recalled similar form reversals. The Illini whipped a previously unbeaten Michigan team in 1955 and knocked off Michigan State last season.
Coach Ray Mollenkopf's Boilermakers also followed tradition. They bumped Michigan State 6-0 in 1955 to end a 20-game winning streak for the Spartans.
Illini Display Teamwork
Purdue's Ross Fitchner connected on a 43-yard pass to Tom Franckhauser for a first down in the third period and Mel Dillard plunged for one touchdown. Kenny Mikes sprinted 34 yards for another after a Michigan State fumble and the Boilermakers were never in trouble after that.
The Illinois rout was a team job with most of the heroes in the line. The backfield stars were Jack Delyea, who scored two touchdowns, and Dale Smith, Bob Mitchell and Ron Hill who got one each.
Six players contributed touchdowns to Ohio State's breeze over Indiana. They were paced by quarterback Frank Kremblas and halfback Dick Lebeau, who scored two each.
Jim Van Pelt came from the hospital where he was recovering from the flu to help Michigan beat Northwestern. He passed for two touchdowns and ran for another.
Iowa needed all its power and a last-minute break to stop Wisconsin's winning streak at three games. Randy Duncan's passing was the big factor in the Hawkeye offense, but it took an intercepted pass in the fourth period to clinch the win.
In other games next week, Villanova is at Indiana, Iowa at Northwestern, Miami of Ohio at Purdue and Ohio State at Wisconsin.
Four Milwaukee Stars Named to National Team
NEW YORK (U)—Hank Aaron, Red Schoendienst and Warren Spahn, the three key men in the Milwaukee Braves' march to a world championship, were the only unanimous selections today on the United Press' 1957 National League All-Star team.
A fourth Milwaukee star, third baseman Ed Matthews, was named to the team which also included first baseman Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, outfielder Willie Mays of the New York Giants, catcher Ed Bailey and outfielder Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs and rookie pitcher Jack Sanford of the Philadelphia Phils.
The team was selected for the United Press by a special committee of 24 baseball writers from each city in the league. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates were the only teams not represented on the squad.
The voting was close only at shortstop where the hard-hitting Banks beat out slick-fielding Roy McMillan of the Redlegs, 10 votes to eight. The other six votes were divided among Dick Groat of the Pirates, Al Dark of the Cardinals and Chico Fernandez of the Phils.
Although sound defensively, the team's outstanding attribute—could it actually take the field in the flash—would be hitting. The eight regulars walloped no less than 247 home runs this year—an average of 31 per man—and five of the stars hit more than 300.
The top average, of course, was compiled by the 36-year-old Musial, who won his seventh N. L. batting championship with a .351 mark. Other .300-plus hitters were Mays, .333; Aaron and Robinson, .322 each, and Schoendienst, .309. Matthews hit .292, Banks .285 and Bailey .261.

Knicks Beat Warriors

NEWARK, N. J. (U)—Ken Sears scored 20 points to lead the New York Knickerbockers to a 102-96 win over the Philadelphia Warriors Sunday in a National Basketball Association exhibition game. The Knickerbockers had beaten the College All-Stars, 109-94, on Saturday night.

Deer Permits Still Available, State Reports

SPRINGFIELD (U)—About 5,000 deer hunting permits are still available for the three-day shotgun hunting season Nov. 1-3, the State Conservation Department said today.
Shotgun deer permit quotas have been filled in some of the 33 counties in which hunting will be allowed, but permits still are available in Whiteside and Stephenson counties in the northwest area.
Pike and Mason counties in central Illinois, Union, Gallatin and Saline counties in southern Illinois and Cass County in west-central Illinois still have unfilled quotas, although applications now are heavy for these areas, the department said.
The quota of permits also is going fast for Alexander County.
The 1957 season is the first open season on deer in Illinois since 1900. A L-day deer season for bow and arrow hunters closed last Tuesday, except on waterfowl refuges in southern Illinois.
Complete results of the bow and arrow season are not in yet, the department said, but on the basis of present information about 100 deer were killed.
About half the kill was taken from southern counties, the remainder from the central and northern counties which were open.
The department said John Force, of Chandlerville, would be credited with the first legal kill of a whitetail deer in the bow and arrow season.
Howard McCool, Galesburg, will be credited with the first kill of a deer of any kind, since his was a cross-breed deer. Both men got their deer shortly after the bow season opened Oct. 1.

Pro Play Produces First Place Ties In National League Divisions

By United Press
Brilliant Sunday performances by Bobby Layne, Howard Cassady, Sunny Jurgensen, Y. A. Tittle and Charley Conerly produced first-place ties in both divisions of the National Football League.
The Lions set up a three-way tie for first in the Western Division by rallying from a 27-3 deficit to edge the Baltimore Colts at Detroit, 31-27. Layne climaxed Detroit's 29-point second half spree with a 28-yard touchdown pass to Cassady with only 50 seconds to play.
Three-Way Tie
Taking advantage of Baltimore's first defeat, the San Francisco Forty-Niners tied the Colts and Lions for the Western lead as Tittle fired two touchdown passes and scored himself in a 24-14 victory over the Green Bay Packers. The three leaders have 3-1 records.
Jurgensen, a rookie quarterback from Duke, replaced the injured Bobby Thomason and helped the Philadelphia Eagles pull the day's biggest upset. He threw a touchdown pass and plunged for another as Philadelphia downed the Cleveland Browns, the only other previously unbeaten club, 17-7. The Eagles had lost 14 straight games, including exhibitions, and took a 24-7 whipping at Cleveland last week.
Conerly threw two touchdown passes to Bob Schnelker as the New York Giants, defending league champions, shut out the Pittsburgh Steelers, 35-0. The Giants, playing like titleholders for the first time this season, boosted their record to 3-1 and tied Cleveland for the Eastern lead.
Galimore Scores Four
Individual stars also sparked in the other two games. Willie Galimore's four touchdowns helped the Chicago Bears—defending Western

THE CANVAS DAGGER

by HELEN REILLY

THE STORY: The man's body fished from a pond on Cape Cod was stolen from the undertaker, placed in a deserted cottage which was then set afire. Sarah Casement has a feeling that this unidentified man was the tramp who may have stayed in the cottage in which she is living—and who was frightened away by Sarah's arrival.

XV
Even in broad daylight Sarah didn't much relish going to the house.

She gave herself a shake. There was nothing disturbing there now, just the stairs painted blue, with narrow treads and steep risers, between the white walls.

Sarah went up them. The second floor landing was dim. Three bedrooms opened off it—a small one to the right, one straight ahead beyond the bulge of the chimney, and one to the left. There was nothing out of the way in the first two, no sign of any disturbance, disorder.

There was nothing out of the way in the big room either; certainly no one had slept in the beds. Sarah opened the small door to the end chamber, which was long and narrow with a roof that sloped sharply to the eaves. The rough pine floor was unpainted. There wasn't much of it clear, just a narrow aisle partway down the middle and a square in front of the door. Lying across this square in front of the door, long blue handle propped on the hatbox, was a broom.

Sarah looked at the broom, and then at the floor boards. The dust was everywhere else, there was none on the square at her feet. The floor had been swept clean, recently.

Sarah went on staring down. Had the man who later died in the pond returned here to remove, erase, what might be identifying footprints?

All at once the heavy air of that place began to get her. She felt as if she were suffocating. She backed out of the end chamber, shut the little red door, turned towards the hall, and caught her breath.

A man was standing on the landing in the dimness smiling at her. It was Felix Satterlee, freshly shaven, rosy, and perfectly groomed, as always.

"Good morning, Miss Casement. Did I frighten you? I am sorry. I called out but I guess you didn't hear me."

FELIX SATTERLEE had come to borrow a hot plate, theirs had burned out. Mr. Satterlee showed the greatest familiarity with the end chamber, lifting cartons about, going to the right one. Sarah reflected that Grace's house seemed to be a sort of commissary.

"Ah, here we are," Satterlee lifted the hot plate out and blew on it daintily, and they went downstairs together. The painter made only a passing reference to the events of the previous night. Body snatching was an old custom. He was more worried about the pyromaniac.

He was a pleasant man, open, friendly and polite. The faint foreign accent was attractive; he was an Austrian by birth and had come to the United States as a boy of 14. Carlotta said he was an excellent art instructor.

Sarah was making tea and thinking about the broom and the end chamber when two men came up the driveway and into the kitchen. One was the fire chief, Ham Danzig, the other was Officer Baker, a Cornwall policeman. The fire chief said they were visiting every house in the neighborhood. The ruins of the summer cottage had been sifted; gone over inch by inch, in the hope of finding a clue to the identity of the pyromaniac or to how the fire had been set. In this they had been unsuccessful. But they had recovered a blackened belt buckle and a collection of buttons that might or might not have belonged to the dead man, and also a scrap of material burned around the edges but still bright

Mrs. Jessie Yates received word from her daughter, Mrs. Ray (Ovalee) Casmer, that Mrs. Casmer's father-in-law, Walter Casmer of Detroit, Mich., fell from the second story of his home while installing storm windows and suffered a broken back, a sprained wrist and injured a foot. The Raleigh Worker's 4-H club met recently in the home of Athel and Marilyn Wiseman. Nine members and five visitors attended. Officers were elected as follows: Rosalee Cowser, president; Marilyn Wiseman, vice-president; Linda Cowser, secretary-treasurer; Gail Blanchard and Rosemary Miller, reporters. Those who wish to join and could not be at this meeting, may become members at the next meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostess and announcement made that the winter meetings will begin at 7 p. m. Rosemary and Sharon Miller will have the next meeting.

In the middle, on which the charred body had lain. Deprived of air, it had failed to take fire and so had escaped the holocaust. They showed it to her.

The scrap wasn't large. It was no bigger than a silver dollar. The pattern was unmistakable. Sarah recognized it at once. So she had been right, she and Steven, and Carlotta and Tom had been wrong. The man found drowned in the pond had been here in the house.

THE scrap of fabric Officer Baker held out was all that remained of the black-and-white-striped blanket missing from the bed in the front room.

Sarah told them about Sunday afternoon and the banging front door, and the broken rose vines, about the end chamber and the broom. They knew something she didn't know; they exchanged glances, left her and went upstairs. They were there a long time. When they came down they were excited, as though they had discovered something important.

They had. The fire chief explained while Baker phoned the police station.

Not only was there no smoke in the lungs of the man removed from the charred ruins of the summer cottage, there was no water. When he was thrown into the pond he was already dead. Upstairs in the end chamber, down near the eaves, threads from the black-and-white blanket were caught on the rough wood of several of the beams and on the floor at the back behind piled boxes there was a splotch that might be blood, hastily and inefficiently wiped up. There was no saying for sure yet, but it looked as though the dead man lifted from the pond had been killed there, in the stone house.
